Years ago William Moore mar[illegible] a lady 16 years older than he. People said "Too bad, he will have to take care of her when she is old."

Mr. Moore is now 84. His wife, who celebrated her 100th birthday on July 26 is taking care of him, and loves it.

She does all her housework, all the work in her vegetable and flower garden, and finds life more interesting than ever.

Her father was a French-Canadian with the Hudson Bay company, her mother a Spokane Indian.

When she was born Britain and the United States were disputing the great Oregon country. California and the Southwest belonged to Mexico.

The lady has eight children, 10 grandchildren, five great-grandchildren, three great-great-grandchildren by the first two of her four husbands.

She married Moore 40 years after her third husband died and her motto is nil desperandum.

A serum made from the blood of those that have recovered from the disease is found to be the best remedy.

FARMER KILLED IN FALL FROM LOAD OF GRAIN

Tira E. Ditty, 59, Suffers Broken Neck While Assisting with Work.

HORSES START SUDDENLY

Funeral Services To Be Held at Home in Bucyrus Friday Afternoon.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, Aug 5 — Thrown from the top of a wagon load of wheat as the horses started forward suddenly, Tira E. Ditty, 59, retired Crawford county farmer, was instantly killed Tuesday afternoon shortly before 5 o'clock while loading sheafed wheat at the Ditty farm on the River road three and one-half miles west of Bucyrus.

Mr. Ditty suffered a broken neck.

Assisting in Work

Ditty was assisting William Ulmer, who had sowed the wheat, when the accident occurred. The body was removed to Wise funeral home immediately and funeral services will be held there Friday at 2 p. m. following brief services at the home at 414 West Mansfield street. Interment will be made in the Bucyrus mausoleum.

Mr. Ditty was born in Bucyrus Feb 13, 1872, the son of Abraham and Matilda Seeley Ditty. He was married Nov 14, 1894, to Altha Shartock who survives with one daughter Mrs Raymond Shroll, who resides on the Ditty farm west of Bucyrus. Two sisters, Mrs Frank Steinman, Holmes township, and Mrs Roy Linn of Holmes township, also survive.

Retired Farmer

Mr Ditty retired from active farming 11 years ago but since that time assisted with harvesting at his farm on numerous occasions.

ATLANTIC LINERS ARE OFFERED FOR SALE

Shipping Board Hunts Buyer for S. S. Leviathan and Sister Ships.

(Copyright, 1931, by the United Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug 5—United States shipping board officials are in New York today attempting to sell the S. S. Leviathan and her sister ships of the United States Lines, because they have not been profitable.

The fleet was to have been the "show window" of a revived American merchant marine but hopes of its maintenance and the "revival" faded with confession of P. W. Chapman, promotional genius, that he could not operate the line profitably.

The liners may go to the Roosevelt-International mercantile marine combination, which is understood to be the only group interested in an outright purchase. Kenneth D. Dawson, a Pacific coast operator, is offering to take over operation of the lines but not to purchase them. His proposition is said to include, however, an offer to invest in the holdings of the present owner. The only other course would be for the government to take back these ships, which were seized from Germany in the war. The Hoover administration is strongly opposed to such action.

Members of the Roosevelt lines, headed by Kermit Roosevelt, son of the late President, and the international mercantile marine recently brought together two of the strongest shipping groups.

Addition of the U. S. Lines would create the most powerful shipping combine supported by American capital since J. P. Morgan the elder attempted in 1903 to challenge the supremacy of the pre-war British and German merchant marines with his gigantic international mercantile marine corp. He vainly dreamed this would be in shipping what he made the United States Steel Corp. in the steel industry.

SALARIES CUT

Reduction of 10 to 15 Per Cent Made by Steel Corporation.

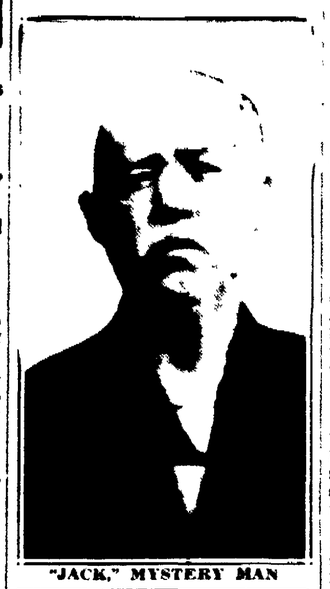
By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 5—Reductions ranging from 10 to 15 per cent, effective Aug. 15, have been made by the United States Steel Corporation, in the pay of all salaried employes.

The action carried out a recommendation by the board of directors at its meeting last night. A statement issued at the close of the meeting said the board recommended an adjustment of salaries of all officers and other salaried employes to be made in varying percentages, depending upon the charter of the service rendered.

Wages were unaffected by the reduction.

Mystery Man's Secret Sealed Today by Death



"JACK," MYSTERY MAN

"Jack," County Home Resident, Dies Suddenly While at Work.

Death has sealed forever the secret identity of "Jack" the mystery man of the Marion County home. Today at 8 a. m. "Jack" dropped dead of a stroke of apoplexy while preparing to finish painting a dormitory of the home. "Jack" died at the work at which he was most proficient. County home officials termed him an expert painter. For some time he had been at work redecorating the dormitories of the home, and was finishing his job this morning when he died.

Praise from Porter

"Jack was a good workman." This commendation today by Matt Porter, home superintendent, would make an epitaph for "Jack's" tombstone, for other than that nothing is known about him.

He came to Marion on Dec 22 1928, brought here by a traveling man who gave him a ride from Lima. The man turned him over to Sheriff James A. Deal, and he, when his term of office expired, left "Jack" in the custody of the new sheriff J. J. Francis. "Jack" was placed in the Marion county home on Jan. 5, 1929 and lived there until his death. Radio broadcasts of his description brought a few queries but nothing ever came of them.

"Jack" remembered nothing beyond the Thanksgiving of 1928. If he was married and had a family, he did not know. He only remembered that someone found him along a road in Iowa with a cut on the back of his head. He wandered across the country into Ohio finally drifting to Marion.

Room Reveals Nothing

A search was made of his room this morning in hope that he had left a letter hidden away that might throw some light on relatives or his past, but the room was barren except for the customary furniture and his few articles of wearing apparel.

"Jack" stood 5 feet 9½ inches and weighed approximately 190 pounds. He was large of stature, was bald and wore a gray mustache. No body marks of identification were found on him this morning at the Schaffner-Queen funeral home on east Center street where the body was taken. A ring which he always wore, was so worn and shiny, that no identification could be made. He was apparently about 70 years old.

When "Jack" first entered the county home Mr. Porter made every effort to help him find his relatives. His shoes were taken to a local shoe store in hope that the trademark might be traced. This spring a woman from Davenport, Ia., who had read of the mystery man in the Marion county home, made inquiries, but he was not the man she had been looking for, and since that time, life had gone on smoothly for "Jack" without the disturbances of curious persons.

Date and time for the funeral have not been set. Still hoping against hope that some one may come to dentify him, definite arrangements have not been made. The body may be viewed at the Schaffner-Queen funeral home on east Center street.

$125,000 BOND SET FOR HART

Cleveland Gangster Center of New Inquiry into Potter Murder.

TAKEN ON OLD CHARGES

Prosecutor Seeks To Trace Connection with Martin, Convicted of Slaying.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Aug 5 With a $125,000 bond to hold him, Solly Hart known as a powerful Cleveland gangster was in jail here—the center of Prosecutor Ray T. Miller's new investigation of the slaying of former Councilman William E. Potter.

Grilled all night Hart refused to answer any questions regarding the murder of Potter.

The high bond was set after Hart was arraigned late yesterday on five old charges, three for carrying concealed weapons and two for robbery. Although the first of the charges was filed six years ago, Hart had never been prosecuted on any of them.

Plans Clean-Up

Miller said the arrest of Hart was the beginning of a "war on gangsters." In addition to planning prosecution on the old charges, Miller sought to learn if there was any connection between Hart and "Pittsburgh Hymie" Martin, who is serving a life term in Ohio penitentiary on conviction of murdering the former councilman. Potter was slain last Feb 2.

Despite the conviction of Martin the mystery of Potter's death has never been fully solved. Martin has continued to claim he had no connection with the crime, and it was his motion for a new trial filed a few days ago which precipitated the new investigation. The motion was accompanied by affidavits from Betty Gray and other state's witnesses claiming that contrary to her testimony in the trial, it was Hart whom she saw in the death apartment instead of Martin.

Detectives today continued a search for Miss Gray in Pittsburgh, on a charge of contempt of court which was filed at the request of ommon Pleas Judge Walter McMahon after her affidavit of false testimony was recorded.

WARNING ISSUED TO OHIO FRUIT GROWERS

Stop Sale of Inferior Products or Ruin Market, Department Warns.

By United Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug 5—The state department of agriculture has issued a warning to growers of agricultural products for the market to stop filling Ohio markets with "plain, unadulterated junk."

"This must stop or the results will be disastrous. This has proven the case with early apples. So much stock of inferior quality has been dumped on our markets that it is impossible to secure a price for good quality stock which will pay the cost of picking and packing," the department's warning reads.

"The division of markets does not wish to be considered in the light of a dictator. Nevertheless we would be neglectful of our duty if we failed to warn Ohio growers that forcing [illegible] on our markets is injuring Ohio [illegible] as a whole.

Fire Destroys Shed and Two 100-Gallon Tanks of Gasoline.

Special to The Star

IBERIA, Aug 5 Raymond Garver, threshing machine operator was hurled from a small storage shed when two 100 gallon tanks of gasoline exploded at his home here about 9 p. m. yesterday.

The gasoline caught fire from a lighted lantern carried by Garver. He was severely burned about the arms and hands and Mrs Garver who was sitting near the building, was burned on the feet. The building was destroyed.

Garver was removed to the office of a physician in Mt Gilead and later taken to his home.

The explosion occurred just as Garver entered the building to get some gas for the tractor used to operate his threshing machine in preparation for his work today.

The Galion fire department responded to a call and succeeded in preventing the flames from spreading to the house, a brick structure and other farm buildings.

Negroes Resent Radio Humor of Amos 'n' Andy

By United Press

CLEVELAND, O., Aug 5—Petitions to silence "Amos 'n' Andy," popular radio team, today were being circulated among the Cleveland Negro populace.

Sponsored by a Pittsburgh Negro newspaper, the petitions charge the "two white men have been exploiting certain types of the American Negro for purely commercial gain." They alleged "Negro womanhood has been broadcast to the world as indulging in bigamy," and "Negro lawyers depicted as schemers and crooks."

According to representatives of the newspaper, who are circulating the petitions, more than 275,000 names already have been obtained in a nation-wide drive. The goal is 1,000,000 signers, they said.

OKLAHOMA TROOPS INVADE OIL FIELDS

Governor Carries Out Martial Law Threat To Increase Oil Prices.

By The Associated Press

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Aug 5 Governor William H. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray has carried out a threat to shut down Oklahoma oil wells under martial law in an effort to increase prices for crude oil. He named the "supreme executive power of the state" as his authority.

National guardsmen called out late yesterday invaded the giant Oklahoma City oil field without appreciable opposition and headed toward new objectives. The governor's orders are to close all of the state's 3,106 wells that have a daily average production of 25 barrels or more.

Gov Murray

The troops under Adjutant General Charles F. Barrett and newly commissioned Lieut Col Cheru I. Murray, the governor's cousin, prepared to go to the greater Seminole area today.

Affects Many Workers

From that point the movement will spread to others of the 27 flush oil pools affected by the executive order. Published reports were that more than 7,500 persons would be left jobless by the closing of the wells.

The order decreed that each well should remain closed until purchasers agreed to pay a minimum of $1 per barrel at the wells. Fifty cents was the top yesterday.

At the Oklahoma City field the shutdown of nearly 800 wells was completed less than four hours after the troops moved in. Stripper wells and gassers furnishing fuel for drilling wells, were exempted.

DYNAMITE FOUND IN CLEVELAND STATION

Believe Explosive Intended for Threat To Extort Cash from Bank.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Aug 5 Two sticks of dynamite, apparently intended to kill some Cleveland banker if he failed to surrender $25,000 under its threat were held by police here today while a search was made for an unidentified man who abandoned the explosive a few weeks ago in a locker at the Colonial bus station.

The dynamite was wired to batteries and an electric switch.

There was a note found with the infernal machine threatening the unnamed banker with destruction. Apparently some one had planned to present the note at a bank demanding $25,000 had intended, if refused, to detonate the explosives, of sufficient power to have killed many people.

The note said in part "I have enough dynamite in the folder I am holding to blow both of us off the face of the earth. It is connected with dry cell batteries and the switch I am holding will instantly set it off."

The dynamite and note were discovered yesterday when officials at the bus station broke into a locker. The only clew to the former owner was an incomplete description of his appearance and the fact that he last was seen at the station during a recent convention here.

NOTED FLIERS LAND AT LAST CANADIAN STOP

Villagers of Northwest Territories Hamlet Voice Noisy Welcome on Arrival.

ESKIMOS JOIN GREETING

Completion of Flight Marks First Time Plane Has Covered Route.

By the Associated Press

AKLAVIK, NORTHWEST TERRITORIES, Canada, Aug 5—Col and Mrs Charles A. Lindbergh landed here at 3:05 a. m., Pacific Coast standard time (6:05 a. m. Marion time) today, completing a 1,115 mile flight from Baker Lake.

The flying Lindberghs left Baker Lake at 6:35 p. m. (Marion time) last night. The hop to their last Canadian stop took approximately 11 and one half hours. It was over the most treacherous and uninhabitated country on the continent. Word of their arrival was sent over a chain of radio stations along the Mackenzie river to Edmonton, Alta.

Point Barrow, northernmost tip of Alaska, had been set for their next stop on their vacation trip to the Orient, but due to ice conditions, it was announced today at Seattle that the U. S. coast guard cutter Northland carrying fuel and supplies for the plane, would not be able to reach the little settlement in time to meet the fliers.

The Lindberghs will probably fly directly to the cutter and refuel there. The Northland is now at Icy Cape, about 150 miles south of Port Barrow.

Hamlet Acclaims Fliers

Every resident of this busy little hamlet on the delta of the rushing Mackenzie river was gathered on the muddy banks of the channel when the Lindbergh plane soared into sight from the East. Shouts of scores of Eskimos mingled with the cheering acclaim of the score or so of white folk who had been waiting all night for the arrival of the flying couple.

Col Lindbergh was all smiles as he climbed from his place at the controls and assisted his wife from the plane after its nose had been drawn up on the muddy shore.

The murky twilight of Aklavik's "darkness" had just given way to the Arctic circle dawn as the holidaying Lindberghs made their landing. They had flown throughout the short night in the land of the midnight sun, tracing their route along the upper rim of Canada's mainland in a straight-line flight from Baker Lake, off the west shore of Hudson Bay.

Flown Over First Time

Never before had the northwest territories been spanned in a single jump, even by the fearless Northland fliers whose livelihood is made in flying over the lake-dotted tundra country. The take-off was made last night after the outside world had come to the conclusion that the Lindberghs would spend a second night at Baker Lake.

Along the edge of the Arctic circle the daring flight of the trip plane had been directed, but not a word of the progress of the top-of-the-world dash was received by radio stations, listening eagerly in the north. Aklavik lies 130 miles within the Arctic circle, while Baker Lake is a shorter distance outside.

2,500 BATTLING BLAZE

200 Conflagrations Doing Extensive Damage in Northwest Forest Areas.

By The Associated Press

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug 5 Flames were ravaging the Priest river valley of north Idaho today, after 18 families barely escaped death in the fire torn area.

The valley was the main battle front for 2,500 men fighting more than 200 fires in the northwest.

Women exhausted by flight from the flames which destroyed their homes and property, were billeted with their children in the Odd Fellows hall at Priest River, Idaho. Citizens of other towns sent food and clothing to the fugitives.

A thousand fighters were working desperately to drive livestock out of the territory in the blaze's path.

Winds kept all the northwest's major fires in rich timber. Charred trees were blocking almost all roads under the smothering cover of smoke in Priest River valley.

Communication from the fire fronts to the outside world was haphazard.

Pilots carrying men from Lewiston, Idaho, to the Salmon river territory in central Idaho were bucking smoke as high as 10,000 feet. The air was the only route to two isolated blazes.

Three fires joined at the south fork of the Salmon river and burned a ferry. Foresters said some of the various new fires were incendiary.

Chancellor Bruening To Visit Mussolini and Pope

German Statesman Leaves for Rome Tonight, Continuing Series of Remarkable Meetings Between Leaders of European Nations' Affairs.

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, Aug. 5—Chancellor Heinrich Bruening, continuing along the course suggested by Ambassador Frederic M. Sackett, leaves tonight for Rome with his foreign minister to visit Premier Mussolini as well as Pope Pius XI.

Following in the wake of the English, French and German visits the Rome conference will be one of a remarkable series of meetings among the leading statesmen of Europe which begun on June 4, with the journey of German officials to London. Herr Bruening hopes to complete the good work by having Premier Laval and Foreign Minister Briand in Berlin late this month and to persuade Mussolini and Foreign Minister Grandi to repay the German visit.

Banks Near Normal

The opening of the Reich's banks after an enforced holiday of more than three weeks was believed to have given the chancellor new encouragement in his task of bringing financial order out of chaos. Experts held that the situation has greatly improved since President Von Hindenburg's emergency decree and that the banks would resume normal business without fear of depositors' runs.

Persons standing in the American colony here have been urging the chancellor and Dr. Julius Curtius to go to Washington for a friendly talk with President Hoover as Prime Minister MacDonald did in 1927. With Germany in the most critical position since the founding of the republic, however, it is considered they could ill afford to set the ocean between them and their people at this time.

The Italian visit is chiefly in the nature of a compliment to Mussolini for having wholeheartedly endorsed the Hoover plan for a reparations holiday. Germany can expect no financial aid from Italy, it was felt.

Willing To Arbitrate

Neither are their profound differences to be smoothed out at Rome. Both nations are willing to go the limit on disarmament providing other nations do likewise. The only sore spot is Austro-German customs protect but both sides are willing to wait for the decision of The Hague court.

There appeared every reason to believe that the Rome meeting will prove cordial in every way and that the work of European collaboration so auspiciously begun in London will pass another milestone this week-end.

Gilberts' "Ideal Romance" Ends; Ina Granted Divorce

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 5—The airplane elopement of Ina Claire, stage and screen actress, and John Gilbert, romantic movie actor, whose marriage was termed the "ideal romance," has crashed in the divorce courts.

The actress obtained the decree yesterday on a charge of mental cruelty, saying Gilbert told her they were temperamently unsuited to each other and that he wanted to be left alone.

Although a private hearing had been sought, news of the case became public and spectators trooped into the Judge Joseph Sproul's chambers.

Miss Claire's low-voiced testimony followed closely the charges of the complaint, asserting a "course of habitual cruelty which resulted in great mental pain and suffering."

In Airplane Elopement

Gilbert, who eloped by airplane with Miss Claire, in May, 1927, did not attend the hearing.

"You say he requested you to leave home?" Judge Sproul asked leaning forward. "He did," whispered Miss Claire. "He said we were temperamentally unsuited to each other and - - - - -."

Newspaper cameras clicked. Flashlight bulbs flared. The actress' voice increased to a rich contralto.

"He said he wanted to be left alone. He was very irritable and moody. I attempted, then and there, to pacify the aforesaid defendant, and restore peace and harmony in our lives, but - - -."

Miss Fanny Holtzmann, New York, attorney for Miss Claire, prompted her - "you went to live with friends?"

"I did. I tried to get John to come back but he said I was a woman with too much intellect - whatever he meant by that."

Gilbert said later that no property settlement, in the usual sense of the term, had been agreed upon.

"More Than Fair" Jack Says

"She has been more than fair in every way," Gilbert said. "She voluntarily signed away, one year after our marriage, all rights to my property."

The divorce ended the third marriage of Gilbert, and the second of the actress.

SAVES MONEY

Kenton's Share of Improvement Assessment Below Estimate.

KENTON, Aug. 5. The city of Kenton enjoyed a saving of nearly $2,000 from the estimated amount due as its portion of the resurfacing of south Main and north Detroit streets, according to a report given out.

The total cost of the project, of which one-half was paid by the state, one-fourth by the city and the remaining one-fourth by the county, came to $13,327.61. Estimates prior to start of work placed the probable cost at between $18,000 and $20,000. Kenton solons had set aside $5,000 from the city's gas tax moneys to pay on the project.

Cleveland Man Held for Federal Officers

An affidavit charging him with the theft of a tire has been filed against William Taylor, Cleveland Negro arrested by a patrolman near the Union station yesterday morning after he is alleged to have taken a tire from a parcel post truck at the depot. He is being held at police headquarters pending the arrival of postal authorities from Toledo.

OFFICERS TO CLAIM KENTON BANDIT CAR

Federal Men May Take Young Man on Charges of Theft.

Special to The Star

KENTON, Aug. 5—Definite assurance was received by Police Chief O. D. Sheldon that the DeSoto automobile, taken here when Howard L. Dunlap was apprehended after attempting to steal gas and oil from a local filling station, is the property of the Finley Cab company of Peoria, Ill. It was taken from a branch office of the cab company in Chicago.

Cecil Winebrenner, of Kenton, received a minor bullet wound in the calf of his right leg when Dunlap fired at him Thursday night. Winebrenner at first said he was uninjured but yesterday he went to a Kenton physician to have a hurt above his ankle dressed. There it was ascertained that the injury was made by a bullet which had passed through the trouser leg, searing the flesh as it passed.

Representatives of the cab company will be in Kenton today after the car, according to advice received here.

If a federal charge of automobile stealing is filed local officials will be compelled to turn the man over to federal authorities, it was said. Either Marion or Chicago cab companies, both of which credit Dunlap with stealing automobiles and driving them in three states, could file such charges.

Dunlap was captured here last Thursday after a running gun battle with officers and a hastily formed posse. He is being held in county jail for failing to furnish $5,000 bond on a charge of shooting with intent to kill. The affidavit was filed by Kenneth Arnet, filling station operator.

MERRITT STARR is dead in Chicago, aged 75. He was the lawyer representing Standard Oil who had set aside a twenty-nine million dollar fine that Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis ordered Standard Oil to pay. That looked like "big money" in those days, but almost any little Standard octopus could pay it now with ease.

Judge Landis now rules baseball, and his judgments cannot be set aside.

OKLAHOMA TROOPS INVADE OIL FIELDS

Governor Carries Out Martial Law Threat To Increase Oil Prices.

Going deeply into Oklahoma law, the chief executive used nearly 3,000 words in drafting his order. The principal points argued as reasons for the shutdown were:

1. Protection of schoolchildren of the state. (Oil on school land produces a considerable part of the state's revenue).

2. Conservation of the state's natural resources.

3. To protect the taxpayers rights to and in oil revenues.

4. To establish the guarantee of the fourteenth amendment of the United States constitution to independent producers against taking their property "without due process of law."

5. To protect citizens from "general monopolistic control of their natural resources by corrupt combinations of capital who produce, transport, refine and sell oil."

Companies Protest

Pipeline companies, refused permission by national guardsmen to take crude oil from leases where about 100,000 barrels were available to run, protested early today to Otto Bradford, field probation umpire and liason officer between the guard and the oil companies. Bradford was attempting to obtain official clarification of the order.

Col. Murray visited the Oklahoma City field early this morning, finding operations at only 12 producing wells, which were exempt from the decree. Detachments of state troops patrolled some sections, ordered to maintain military control against all orders save those of the President or the supreme court of the United States.

Asserts Tiffin Wage Scale Not Observed

By United Press

TIFFIN, O., Aug. 5—Charges that Tiffin's minimum wage scale is being ignored by contractors resurfacing a street here were made to the city council Tuesday by Charles Trimmer, councilman-at-large.

"The contractors are paying 35 cents an hour and the city's minimum is 50 cents," Trimmer charged.

Service Director Joseph C. Arnold said the work was being carried out by a state contract and that city officials lack authority to interfere.

He said the same company was paying 50 cents for labor on a city contract.

COUNCIL APPROVES NEW CITY BUDGET

Bucyrus Officials Adopt Figures for 1932 Appropriation; Discuss Proposal of Traction Receiver.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, Aug. 5—Appropriations totaling $135,748.93 with which to operate the city of Bucyrus during the fiscal year 1932 were approved by the city council Tuesday night when the new budget as prepared by City Auditor Constance Keller was adopted. The budget was given a first reading two weeks ago and public hearing was set for last night. Several slight changes in appropriations for debt charges within the 15-mill limitation were made on the advice of City Solicitor Charles F. Schaber, before the adoption was made final. Estimated receipts from all sources next year will more than cover the estimated expenditures, according to Auditor Keller.

Follows Other Cities

After considerable discussion led by Councilman George Ryan, council voted to follow the initiative taken by other cities located along the Cleveland Southwestern railway and light company, now in the hands of a receiver, and accept a proposition as presented by the receiver, C. J. Mayer, whereby the city will retain all rails within the city limits. Ryan was supported by Councilmen William Reinmeyer and Herman Long in opposing the proffered proposition on the grounds that if the city refused the offer, a chance remained that the line could be sold at junk price and again be made a going concern.

The proposition as offered by the railway company provides that the city retain all rails and that the company not be required to tear up the streets to remove the tracks. All overhead equipment will be removed by the company. That the tracks could not be sold as junk at a price which would warrant tearing up the streets and replacing the bricks was the general opinion of council in accepting the proposition.

May Build Spur

That the tracks may be removed and given to the Riddell Machinery company for use in building a spur track from the east Warren street plant to the Pennsylvania railroad tracks has been indicated by council.

BOAT PLAN CHANGED

Coast Guard Cutter Unable To Reach Point Barrow with Supplies

By The Associated Press

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 5—Blanketed by a dense fog, 24 miles west of Icy Cape on the Arctic shore, the U. S. Coast guard cutter Northland, carrying fuel for Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh on their vacation trip to the Orient, today abandoned any hope of reaching Point Barrow in time to meet the fliers.

Coast guard headquarters were advised by the Northland that the fog, continuous for several days, prevents the vessel from finding a way through the ice off Blossom Shoals. Point Barrow is about 150 miles north of the cape.

Should the Lindberghs arrive before the Northland reaches Wainwright, about 45 miles north of Icy Cape, the coast guardsmen plan to hand over the fuel in the vicinity of the cape or in a lagoon, depending upon weather conditions.

DOCTOR SAYS EDISON NOT OUT OF DANGER

Life Hangs on "Few Frayed Strands of Health," Reporters Are Told.

By The Associated Press

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Aug. 5—Thomas A. Edison is held to life only by frayed strands of health, Dr. Hubert S. Howe told reporters today.

He said although the 84-year-old inventor had showed marked and rapid improvement he was "not yet out of immediate danger."

"His condition is like the fraying out of an elevator rope," Dr. Howe said. "The elevator functions until the last strand breaks. The outside looks all right. All that is left for the engineer to do is to protect the last few strands."

The physician said Edison had a chance "of coming out of this and living for some time."

In the earlier stages of his illness, Dr. Howe said, the inventor had been unwilling to take any medicine until he had read all about it and studied its chemical reactions. But he had been so sick, the doctor added, that he was willing now to take the medicine first and read of its effects afterward.

Bombing of street cars, exchange of shots between policemen and some of the 40,000 strikers, dissolution of groups by police and detention of laborers for carrying arms marked Havana's share of the strike, involving 12 to 15 of Cuba's larger cities.

In addition to explosives placed in three street cars, a blast was set off around the corner from the newspaper Heraldo De Cuba, injuring a photographer. Other bombs were placed in the residence of Representative Enterio Zorillo and in a room of the Hotel Perla De Cuba. Damage in both cases was slight.

DENY PROTECTION TO NON-SUBSCRIBERS

Waldo Fire Truck To Serve Only Those Who Contributed to Purchase.

Farmers who refuse to become members of the association, will not have the benefit of fire protection from the community pumper recently installed by the Waldo Community Fire Protection Association at Waldo, it was announced last night by Russell Sycks, secretary of the association.

A resolution passed by the association last week, Mr. Sycks said, provides that only those farmers who live within a radius of approximately seven miles of the village and who pay the fee of $25 fixed by the association, will be given fire protection from the pumper.

In the past it has been the custom, Mr Sycks said, for the pumper to be taken to the scene of any country fire, regardless of whether the farmer was a member of the association or not. This, however, was deemed unfair to

LOSES FRIEND

Black Jolla, Trotter, Wants Canine Companion Back.

Lost a stablemate.

An instance of the strange companionship between animals was brought to light this week when "Dude," a full grown fox terrier owned by Robert McMillan of Sidney O., connected with the O Valery Racing stables of Xenia, O. now stationed at the fairgrounds disappeared this week

Dude and Black Jolla third place winner in the 2 18 trot Tuesday, were stable mates, and according to the horse's handlers, Black Jolla really misses his little companion.

To restore the horse's spirits, a citywide search is being made, and a classified advertisement has been placed in The Star offering a liberal reward for the return of the black and white four-legged friend

"Mistake" Proves Costly for Mounted Policeman

By The Associated Press

DALLAS, Tex., Aug. 5—Motorcycle Policemen J. W. Futtinger and C. W. Tolder made the mistake today by ordering a suspicious-looking pedestrian to open a mysterious bag he carried. The stranger, complying, extracted a pistol, forced the officers to surrender their weapons, punctured the tires of one motorcycle, and escaped on the other.

HARDING ANNUAL WINS O. S. U. AWARD

Local High School Publication One of Seven Best in Class.

The first state-wide honor ever extended to a yearbook of Harding High school was received by the 1931 Quiver Annual, according to an announcement received this week by its editor-in-chief, Miss Virginia Shipley of 225 Edgewood drive.

The annual of the local school was one of the many entries in the Ohio Annual contest, which is sponsored each year by the student senate of Ohio State university. The list was closed to entries June 15, and the judging by members of the senate was recently completed, according to the announcement.

The Harding High school annual was judged as one of the seven best year-books in Class "B," which includes annuals from schools with fewer than 1,500 students. Class "A" entries were yearbooks of high schools with 1,500 or more students enrolled.

Miss Betty Mann of 344 south Vine street was assistant editor of the annual.

It would be interesting at this time to hear the champions of government ownership, management and control explain the present situation in which Australia finds itself.

Public and semi public works contracts were awarded last week aggregating an expenditure of $44,683,446, but distributed over a country having more than 120,000,000 population that will not markedly reduce the sitters on courthouse steps.

The soviet government is razing one of the most imposing religious edifices in Moscow, the Cathedral of the Redeemer "to give place to a "Palace of Communism." Thus far the only out-of-the-ordinary work of physical construction done by the bolsheviki has been the tomb of Lenine.

Michigan plans a cut of $593,227,000 in tax valuations, half of which will be in Wayne county. Still, the state should be able to get along on the tax duplicate left, which will be $7,853,814,000 by lopping off the willing patriots holding absolutely unnecessary jobs.

The commerce department in Washington announced Monday that wholesale prices throughout much of the world have dropped to pre-war levels or lower, and it might well have added that retail prices here in the United States have followed the same trend, so much so as to make the present a mighty good time in which to buy.

More than 100 United States government employes have been paying two dollars a month each for parking privileges to the "manager" of a parking place which, it has been developed, belongs to the government. It's hard to imagine Main Street showing up anything in the easy mark line to equal this.

If we get the Detroit newspaper view correctly, it is that, if the Wickersham reports generally are of no more value than that on the Detroit situation, and especially that part of it referring to the removal of Police Commissioner Rutledge, there has been a lot of money and the time of a number of eminent gentlemen utterly wasted. It has become so that one just naturally is inclined to feel sorry for that commission.

Possibly Mayor Walker, who is aboard the Bremen enroute to a German spa where he will remain a couple of months for the benefit of his health, figures that the gangsters and racketeers can hardly be any more active in his absence than they have been with him on the job.

Condensed grape juice is being openly sold in New York City in the form of bricks which, when dissolved, becomes wine, and the prohibition authorities seemingly are passive, their handicap being that they have to prove that the bricks are purchased for wine-making purposes. One thing may be said for prohibition; it has developed more ingenious methods of law evasion, as well as law defiance, than any other movement in the country's history.

New Jersey Stops Stop Signs.

Motor traffic grows out of its clothes faster than a fourteen-year-old boy. Since the clothes were cut out by guesswork in the first place, maladjustment is the more obvious for that reason.

New Jersey is refitting its regulations concerning stop signs in an interesting way. It may succeed in setting a style that other states will follow.

The New Jersey traffic commission concluded from investigations that there were too many stop signs in the state. Promiscuous and unreasonable use of the signs, it concluded further, was responsible for the fact that more than eighty per cent. of all motorists were failing to obey the signs. Of those motorists obeying, furthermore, nearly half were obliged to do so by the flow of traffic on the intersecting street. The stop signs may have meant something to them, but danger caused them to stop.

The traffic commission, accordingly, recommended certain changes in the New Jersey traffic act, which were made. The principal points in the changed part of the regulations are that all present stop signs are to be removed and that future signs regulating the flow of traffic through streets shall read "Through Street" instead of "Stop Street." It is provided, also, that no such sign will be legal unless the "Through Street" has been designated as such by legislative action. The effect will be, it is expected, to reduce greatly the number of stop signs, and to increase observance of those there are.

This seems sensible. Other states, no doubt, will take similar action as the natural tendency to abuse meaningless stop signs is asserted.

Departures Exceed Arrivals.

The beneficial effect of our present immigration laws was made evident during the twelve-month period ended June 30 of the present year, the record for which shows that the aliens who left the country, including 18,142 deported, exceeded by more than 10,000 the number of aliens who entered the country. The number of aliens leaving the country was 107,376, while the aliens entering the country numbered but 97,139. Thus the departures exceeded the arrivals by 10,237.

Without a doubt, the business recession which this country experienced somewhat in advance of many other countries within its worldwide sweep was not without its effect on immigration, but even so, the great factors in bringing about the change in the situation were the bars which have been erected in recent years against the unrestricted entrance of aliens into the country.

There was a time when the aliens entering the United States in a single year exceeded a million in number. This was not exceptional, either. It was true in 1905, in 1906 and in 1907, entries in the year last named having been 1,285,349. Again the million mark was passed in 1910 and in 1913 and 1914, the entries during 1914 having been 1,218,400. Then the World war intervened as a partial barrier and in 1918 the arrivals dropped to 110,618, only to mount, three years later, to 805,228. The fall since 1921 has been rapid, but the decrease in no year since that date compared with the decided falling off which marked the fiscal year recently closed. The 97,139 aliens coming in during the twelve-month period were fewer than in any similar period since 1862, during which the entries were but 72,183, and with this exception fewer than any year since 1844, when the immigrants numbered 78,615.

But effective as our immigration laws are proving in holding back an alien flood, they can hardly be held to be what they should be until they are so amended as no longer to prove a standing offense to the Japanese and some other peoples of the Far East.

For almost a decade, the Japanese government was silent under what it considers an afront. In this respect, the restraint of the Tokyo government has been admirable. But, admirable as that restraint was in Japanese silence, it was no more admirable than the restraint manifested in the Japanese utterance, early in the present year, when the foreign minister of Nippon, Baron Shidehara, said in addressing the diet:

"On the question of the United States immigration law, which for the past seven years has been weighing heavily on popular sentiment in this country, there is no longer any doubt that our position is now fully understood and appreciated by a large majority of the American people. We shall watch further development of the question with unimpassioned, but keen interest."

It is pleasing to read that the immigration committee of the United States chamber of commerce, on the initiation of business men of the Pacific coast, has recommended that Japan be placed on the quota basis in our immigration laws, and congress very probably will be urged to enact legislation doing away with discrimination against the Japanese and some other far eastern peoples. This discrimination, which has been marked for many years, was almost wholly due to the attitude of the West. With business men of that section of the country seeking to do away with this discrimination, this long-standing bar to complete understanding between the United States and Japan may possibly soon be removed.

The California grape industry plans to ask the farm board this week for $6,000,000 more. Of course, the plea is to save the raisin industry, but it's hard for the average American to understand why the government, which is burning up millions of dollars in an attempt to enforce prohibition, should loan millions to an industry the product of which is utilized to combat prohibition.

State Is Proud of Akron.

At the Akron airport this coming Saturday a mighty airship will be launched. It will be the largest lighter-than-air craft in the world, larger than either the Los Angeles or the Graf Zeppelin, and even bettering the huge R-100. Its launching will be an event to recall in future years, when the significance of the early years of practical aeronautics are marshaled for review.

This huge ship, which entitles the United States to move into first place among the nations competing in the development of lighter-than-air craft, will be a common object of admiration over the entire world. For two years, since the master ring of its complicated structure was laid, it has been a topic of conversation. It is, beyond any doubt, one of the foremost symbols of mankind's capacity to master material energy and divert it to his purpose.

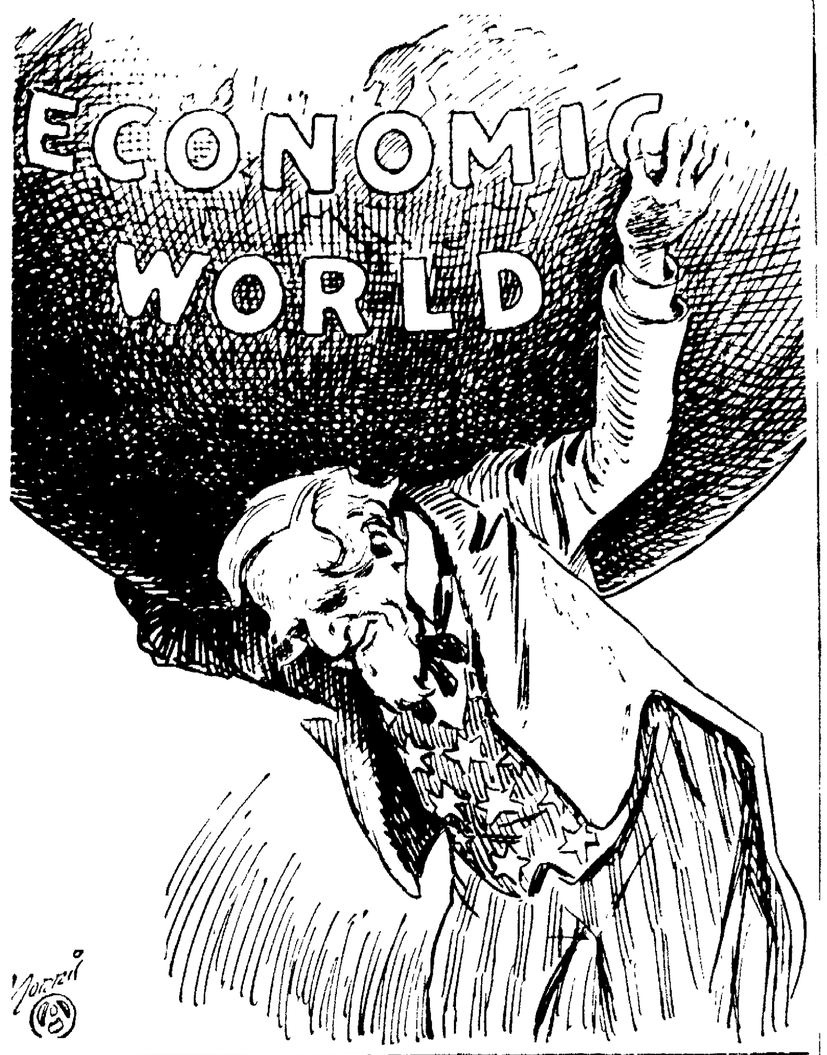
The launching of the Akron, as it has been named in honor of the city whose labor and industrial equipment have been employed to build it, will be an event reflecting credit to this state. Ohio claims in a general way the resourcefulness and farsightedness which Akron has exercised liberally to become the world center of the lighter-than-air craft construction industry. The state is proud of Akron.

The proceedings of the French chamber of deputies were interrupted a day or two ago by a number of communists in the gallery shouting: "We want bread." Were such reds given bread and a little water on the side for a time it might result in curbing manifestations of the kind.

A spic and span 175-foot yacht, apparently a pleasure vessel, as a number of young women were abroad, in some way aroused the suspicion of the coast guard near Cape May, New Jersey, and was found to be carrying 2,000 cases of liquor valued at $125,000. Rum-running has become something of an art as well as a business.

In a provincial plebiscite, Sunday, Catalonia gave practically its unanimous approval to the constitution, which makes clear that the only alternative to Catalonian liberty—in federal relationship with the rest of Spain—is civil war. That "self-determination of peoples" business certainly has stirred up a lot of trouble over in Europe since its enunciation.

THE MODERN ATLAS.



Editorial Opinion.

DEALS THAT BLOCK JUSTICE.

The waning interest in Wickersham reports should be revived by the latest public offering of these prodigiously busy fact-finders. It is a report on the operation of the federal courts. Even as it is issued the Capone "fix" at Chicago furnishes a current and striking example of one practice it denounces, namely, the bargaining between prisoner and prosecutor by which guilty pleas are traded for short terms.

This is the exact procedure which aroused public indignation at the conduct of the Capone case, an indignation which so far does not impress the federal department of justice.

When the consideration shown Scarface astounded the nation, the justice department made the lame excuse that similar action had been common in many other cases. It seemed to feel that this was an adequate defense for condoning bargain-counter justice.

The Wickersham investigators think otherwise and are on sound ground in their emphatic denunciation of this kind of law enforcement. They find:

"Evidence of a large uncontrolled discretion, exercised off the record either by the commissioner or the federal enforcement agencies by which possible contested cases are eliminated or prosecuted under less serious charges."

Whether this practice is applied in the case of a Capone or a far humbler rodent of the underworld, the effect upon justice is deplorable. Prosecutors who, as the commission says, "use a highly selective process in choosing criminal cases for prosecution" are in great danger of far exceeding their proper power no matter how honest their motives may be.

The publicity attending the Capone case together with this Wickersham report should correct this evil. In part, it is another flower of prohibition. Liquor cases, the commission points out, have jumped so enormously that they now clog the wheels of federal justice. This is no excuse for bargain counter methods of enforcement, but it may be one of the reasons. Cleveland Plain Dealer.

MR. GANDHI'S NEGLIGEE.

Immediately after Mr. Gandhi found it politic to negotiate with Lord Irwin, and then to have the Karachi conference appoint him a delegation of one to the next Indian congress in London, the astute Mahatma began to let it be known in what various original ways he was going to defy the worldly conventions of the British metropolis. Much of this has been effective publicity, as the front pages of the newspapers testify. But time is plainly nearing when Mr. Gandhi's advisers ought to help him understand that in propaganda as in all the other arts, restraint is the essence of power. How many times the assurance has been cabled from India that the greatest of all Oriental politicians intends to appear at the Court of St. James as nearly naked as the weather permits there is no computing, but any one sensitive to the niceties of advertising effect could assure him that this intelligence has been broadcast at least sufficiently often.

The world has been called up so monotonously to imagine how the staid imperial capital will be flabbergasted by the Mahatma's loin cloth, the Mahatma's tireless devotion to his spinning wheel and grass mat, the Mahatma's anguine brown person and ascetic diet, and finally by the Mahatma's goats and his milkmaid of high degree, that the vision of Mr. Gandhi in London is in danger not only of failing to be impressive but of coming perilously near to the comical. Just a little bit more and the tolerant British people, whom the astute master of his own Indian audience hopes to impress with his aggressive asceticism, will be asking why a man of his alleged concern for the sensibilities of his own people can not pay some deference to the conventions of a nation which he will visit as an honored guest. Cod-Liver Oil for Baby.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

It is now an accepted fact most babies will benefit if cod liver oil is given regularly before the end of the first month of life. In fact, it has been recommended by many authorities that the use of cod-liver oil should begin by the end of the second week.

Rickets is, as a rule, a condition that starts early, in the first months of life. It appears when the baby is growing most rapidly. Unfortunately, it may not be recognized until quite late, indeed not until weakness of the muscles and deformity of the bones become conspicuous. It is a condition that may occur in breastfed, as well as in artificially fed, babies.

Babies with rickets become restless, irritable, pale and constipated. The resistance of the infant is lowered. He becomes more susceptible to such infections as bronchitis and pneumonia.

The underlying disease may be entirely cured or prevented by giving the baby sufficient direct sunlight, or by giving cod liver oil. It is advised that both be employed.

Cod liver oil prevents rickets. It strengthens the baby's muscles and his bony framework. Similar to the action of sunlight, it supplies the necessary vital force to prevent the disease.

Cod-liver oil is particularly useful in climates where children do not receive sufficient sunlight. Where there is lack of sunlight, it is best to give it regularly twice a day. This preventive may well be given throughout the first two years of the child's life.

You may begin giving this medication in half teaspoonful doses twice a day. By the end of six weeks, the amount may be increased to one teaspoonful twice a day and by the end of three months, to one and one-half teaspoonfuls twice a day. At about the fourth month the amount may be increased to two teaspoonfuls twice a day and this dosage may be continued through the first two years.

Scientific Warfare.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

It is customary [illegible] a bit unknown, scientific [illegible] warfare in the future. This is a picture presented by H. G. Wells in his [illegible] romances. It requires the imagination of a Haldane or a Verne to guess what future warfare will be like. Near the end of the World war it was reported that scientists had invented or were about to succeed in inventing a new sort of terribly destructive explosive, a few bombs of which would destroy an entire city.

It is hardly to be [illegible] the next great war, on a large scale, will bring into play immensely destructive forces which scientists are now working to create and employ. For example, consider the [illegible] airplane. A number of men have been working on this problem for some time, notably John Hays Hammond, Jr., and Archibald Montgomery Low. The latter claims that he has solved the problem of wireless control of the airplane from a fixed station, within the limits of vision. For such a [illegible] there is a possible future of usefulness. They might be used to procure photographic records of countries or areas over which flying with pilots might endanger life. They might serve to operate postal air services flying at great height over prescribed routes or with slight alteration to record and transmit the actual photographs as taken by a camera carried in the wireless controlled airplane and mechanically worked.

The above are some of the uses for the radio-controlled airplane as described by Professor Low. Water torpedoes, as is well known, have been controlled by radio at a distance with considerable success. The torpedo is controlled by a pilot in an airplane as far as ten miles away. The pilot sets the course by means of a radio-controlled gyroscope, electrically driven and mounted in the torpedo itself.

Enormous thermonic valves will probably be used in future warfare for the wireless transmission of power. Electricity and heat may in this way be sent out in waves from a city to protect it against an attacking army. Poison vapors may be sent up in clouds, above a certain level, to be harmless to those below, but deadly to aviators. Deadly germs, such as botulinus, for example, may be used in food prepared for the enemy, and water sources may be poisoned. As Professor Low has pointed out.

There will be great activity underground, both for protective purposes and because the introduction of wireless sight and light will mean that night affords no cover. Government and other important centers will be underground, there will be scientifically constructed shelters, comfortably equipped, electrically heated and lighted throughout. Electrically heated suits will be worn during cold weather, enabling the wearers to plug themselves in at different points for shelter. Advanced boring machinery will tunnel underground at high speed, for constructing shelters and trenches. Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.

John Paul Jones' Ohio Lands.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

The question is asked, whether John Paul Jones, the naval hero of our early history, ever owned land in Ohio, and if so, where. He did, and its location and history are given in Peters' "Ohio Lands." Jones held five shares in the Ohio company's purchase in southeastern Ohio, each share calling for 1,173.37 acres. They were located in sections and fractional sections 4, 18, 24, 30 and 36, of the fifth township of the thirteenth range of the Ohio river survey, which township corresponds to Canaan civil township in Athens county.

Jones was never married, and these lands being in his name when he died, 1792, they passed under the laws of descent to a number of nieces and nephews and a sister, Mary Ann Lowden, in Dumfrieshire, Scotland. They executed a writ of power of attorney, and under this authority the land was sold in 1818 and the proceeds distributed to them. Probably John Paul Jones himself never saw the land. It is not known that he ever came into the Ohio country. He died when this was still the Northwest territory.

Jones was born John Paul in Scotland in 1747. As a twelve-year-old boy he went to sea. On one voyage, after he had mastered the art of navigation, both the captain and his mate died, and young Paul bringing the ship safely to port won the confidence of her owners, who made him captain. In 1773 he came to America, and settled in Virginia. He became the protege of a family of influence named Jones who secured for him a commission in the Continental navy, and in gratitude for his he took the name Jones.

As a commander in the War of the Revolution he won great fame. After the war, he lived abroad most of the time and died in France in 1792. His burial place, for a time lost, was discovered some years ago, and his remains were brought and deposited with honors beneath the chapel of the Naval academy at Annapolis.

What Will Better Marion?

The following are the answers of three citizens to the question, "What Will Better Marion?—the second in the questionnaire circulated by Dr. Carl W. Sawyer to get a comprehensive insight into the community feeling regarding our home city, in the hope of arriving at a remedy for handicaps, if any, from which Marion may suffer. From day to day, answers of various citizens to the same question will be given publicity on this page.

I fear most of us have been a little too selfish, failing to continue to have in mind the welfare of the whole city and it seems to me that after a President of the United States has been elected from our city, we just took it for granted that Marion was made and just sat back and talked about what a great thing it was for Marion, and simply waited for Marion to become one of the great cities, but it did not happen. I presume those things never happen.

Better cooperation among the class that formerly were for Marion, and more responsibility from the younger set that do not seem to take responsibility as to Marion and its future.

Gas or oil wells, both of which are approaching in Wyandot and Hardin counties. C. & O. or Erie railroad shops. Self-help by united action, possibly piety. There are forty per cent. more church members in Mansfield than in Marion. The former is richer and more prosperous.

Beginning of the Riviera.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

Cannes, Aug. 5.—This is a perky little Paris by the sea and the beginning of the Riviera—that is the Riviera of swaggering hotels, millionaires and their paramours, fast and pseudo-plutocracy and a dumping ground for scorbutic outcast royalty from all points of the compass.

While not so international a high spot as Monte Carlo, it nevertheless offers a mixing of races. This morning on the Croisette, the promenade, I saw a Maharajah in all his trappings, an Egyptian in Bond street clothes and his trailing wife in native veils, a bearded turbaned Moroccan and an American newsboy.

But chiefly the crowds are Anglo-American. American bars are as thick as flies around molasses. English is spoken everywhere, and it is the most conscienceless gyp joint on either side of the Atlantic. The clientele is mostly saps whose ideas of life are food, wine, gambling and rubbing shoulders with minor royalty.

In New York we call the same outfit "cafe society." No other spot on the Cote d'Azur exacts so much tax impertinence from visitors. Taxis charge what they please, and you pay or go to the hoosegow. The whole town is a league to fleece and they snip a wicked pair of shears.

Cannes boasts its garages more Rolls, Hispanos and other luxury cars than any resort in Europe. The concierge tells me an Indian prince whose yacht is in the harbor brought ten various makes of cars along for his month's outing. That's princing!

Whatever one may think of the section, motoring on the encircling hills is unsurpassed although natural scenic beauty is being roughed up by offensive display of advertisements. One, incidentally, on a giant rock heralds a "Dinty Moore corn beef and cabbage" dinner.

Cannes was the accidental discovery of an English lord, who fleeing the rigors of a London winter, was stopped here on way to Italy by a quarantine. The town was then a mere clump of fishing shacks. The visitor built a villa found the climate salubrious and voila the Riviera was launched.

• • •

Before lunch we motored along a bristling pine-plumed slope for about twelve miles to Grasse, center of French perfume making. Although a lover of perfumes, the visit dampened by ardor. Five mile away the air was surcharged with a heavy and to me funereal fragrance, suggesting an undertaking parlor. Yet I got off a good one when I said to my wife "I would like to turn back. But if you wish you can go to Grasse." Always a one—merry and bright.

• • •

In the neighborhood are 10,000 acres of roses, tuberoses, jasmine, violets, pinks, orange blossoms and such. From the petals various scents are made. Most plants are abandoned monasteries, and convents filled with a dismal array of untidy workers, filthy with grime and sweat. A few peeks and all the exotic romance of perfume vanished from me.

• • •

A slatternly cicerone with two chin warts guided us through room after room. There was a confusing blur of flowers being decorated by wretched hands. Stripped petals are tossed into baskets and then into vats of boiling and messy fat. I thought of the Chicago stockyards. In this way the essence is condensed and refuse fat is made into dainty soap sold for sixty cents a bar along Rue de la Paix.

• • •

Each season a total of 700,000 tons of flower petals are turned into exquisite essence. A dozen tons are often needed for a single litter of the expensive essences. But it was worth the drive when returning we turned abruptly into a plateau that offered the most exciting view seen in Europe. Below was the expanse of aqua marine blue fringed with pearly sand and dimpled with red roofs. For miles each way the winding shores conquetted with the glistening sea in a riotous burst of splendor. Such views stimulate my faith in immortality more than all the books and sermons. I drove silently homeward determined to be a better boy. Even before dinner I wrote a long letter to the folks.

• • •

But I hopped from the cloud back at Cannes when I got my bill. Never was so much larceny picked on a small sheet. Fo instance. To maid for turning down bed covering—five francs fifty. I'd turn down a bed and chop the kindling for that. — Copyright, 1931, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

King of Siam's Home.

BY TEMPLE MANNING.

The recent visit of the King of Siam gave Americans an intimate glimpse of one of the few remaining absolute sovereigns and of the ruler of a land the very name of which conveys mystery, romance and exoticism.

One of the greatest protagonists of republicanism in Siam is the king, himself. Tradition makes him the administrative, financial and militaristic head of his country and because Pradadhipok is both efficient and intelligent he is the busiest man within the reaches of his domain which lies between England's Malay possessions and French Indo-China.

The king is sincere in his determination to allot some of his responsibilities to a legislative body or ministers, but because of the backwardness of his people he finds it necessary to go slow.

Dusit palace, on the outskirts of Bangkok, is the official royal residence when King Pradadhipok is in his capital, but he has a half dozen other palaces there and others in various parts of Siam. He administers his duties in a vast Italian renaissance hall. This is of beautiful white marble.

As we all know the king is very western minded and maintains a large royal air force. He is head of the Buddhist church in his country and maintains the famous white elephants on his estates.

One of the most striking buildings on his estates is the Buddhist temple Wat Bencha Abophit, which is constructed of lovely white Carrara marble.

The king is a curious example of a monarch who is very modern and intelligent, but has to bow his will to the prejudice and the traditions of his subjects. He prefers native food but whenever foreigners are guests they are served excellent Occidental fare.

He plays golf and yachts on his elegant private craft and often may be observed driving one of his fifty-miles-an-hour speed boats, altogether he is what Americans call a "regular guy."

Morrow County Commissioners Present Budget for 1932

ASK $110,000 FOR NEXT YEAR

Estimates for Carrying Out County Expenses Slightly Reduced.

By The Associated Press

MT. GILEAD, Aug. 5 — Morrow county estimated expenditures for the year of 1932 will be reduced by $4,000 tax revenue loss resulting from the reduction in the state levy if the commissioners carry on the county business for the estimated budget prepared by the commissioners and presented today to the county auditor for the approval of the county commission.

The budget of $110,000 is asked in taxes for next year. The estimated budget for this year was $120,150. Of the $110,000 next year it is estimated that $5,500 will be required for delinquent tax abatement. The amount appropriated in the last budget for delinquent tax abatement was $39,150. For the past year road construction costs of $70,000 was set aside this year but this item has been cut to $9,200 for the coming year.

General Fund $70,000

Principally in the estimated amounts needed for road and bridge and bond retirement funds is the reduction in the budget noticeable as the general expenses of the county are more or less constant in many items reduction is impossible. The general fund in the budget for next year is $70,000. This is $4,000 more than was appropriated for general expense for the present year.

Salaries of all county officials are fixed by state laws and while reductions in salaries have been made in some cases to cut expenses the amount saved was not great. It is estimated that $8,739 will be required for charity with $500 being expended for personal services in the county and the remainder going mainly for the support of children from the county in children's homes.

Home Gets $10,000

The county home is allowed $10,000 for general expense and $3,775 for the salaries of the superintendent, matron, and wages of employes.

An item of $4,000 for real estate appraisement which appears on this year's budget is cut off entirely in the new budget as no appraisement will be made for another five years. Election board expense is estimated at $3,000, which is $100 more than will be required this year.

Common pleas court expense will take $4,170 most of which is the salary of the common pleas judge. Estimated expense for the probate and juvenile court is $7,580.

No reduction is made in the office of the clerk of courts, a total of $2,235 being set aside. In the sheriff's and auditor's offices the estimated expenditures have been reduced slightly.

Soldiers' Relief Fund

The surveyor's office is allowed $8,100 which is practically the same as the amount required this year. Soldiers' relief will require $2,000 with an added item of $175 for personal service as this year.

Ray Curl, president of the board of commissioners, and Auditor Miller call attention to the fact that the amounts in the budget for the new year are only tentative estimates and that many of the items will probably be changed either by raising or lowering when the commissioners have received the report of the budget commission.

An announcement was received from John Braunschweiger of Toledo, great chief of records, of a state-wide meeting of Red Men to be held in Columbus Oct. 10 in honor of the visit there of Edward O'Connor of Spokane, Wash., the national great incohonee of the order. The meeting will be in the form of a jubilee, with a varied program which has not yet been completed. The Elk's temple in Columbus will be the scene of the gathering. OBJECTION HALTS WORK ON LIGHTS

Mt. Gilead Resident Won't Allow Workmen To Tear Up Sidewalk.

MT. GILEAD, Aug. 5 — The objections of a property owner in west High street to the tearing up of a small portion of sidewalk for the laying of the cable to supply current for the ornamental street lights resulted in a temporary suspension of the work Monday. It developed at council meeting when L. E. Garver, local manager of the power company stated that the property owner had refused to allow the workmen to proceed.

In other places where the cable is being installed the sidewalk is being taken out for a width of about six inches inside the curb. One of the standards is spotted to be placed in front of the property which is owned by Benjamin Olds. A committee consisting of Councilmen Payne, Mozier and Dye was appointed to confer with Olds. If he continues to object to the present plan the cable will be laid in the street past his property but the symetry of the ornamental lights will be spoiled.

The work of restoning and resanding the filter beds at the sewage disposal plant is almost completed, it was reported at the meeting. The contract was let to the Mt. Gilead Construction Co. Two carloads of sand and tile across the top will complete the job. It will be finished within a week or 10 days.

The appointment of two trustees for the Shortline railroad was postponed until the next meeting. The road is one of the few municipally owned steam railroads in the country.

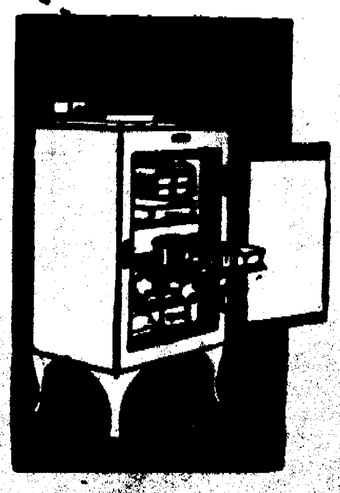
of ELECTRIC REFRIGERATORS

OF course there's a reason. Millions of electric refrigerators have been installed in American homes within the past few years—and millions of Americans can't be wrong. Here's how it happened.
Wise couples, all over the country, considered the business of home making from all angles. They conducted a careful search and came to the conclusion that electric refrigeration is:
The One Road to Home Economy
The reasons are simple. Foods are kept fresh and appetizing until they can be used; making it possible to use all the food paid for rather than just a part of it. Frozen dishes, salads and desserts add a wider variety to the daily menu. The money saved in food bills alone will help to pay for your refrigerator, and will make it well worth the original investment.



—And So, They Bought One
A small down payment will install an electric refrigerator in your home. You may make the remainder in small monthly sums, while you are saving for you.

CHAPTER 19

"I Love Anybody"

W[illegible] say and a wind whic[illegible] blue waters of Bi[illegible] fluttering the flag of [illegible] the marquesa's [illegible] where she sat on the [illegible] talking with the [illegible] was pointing out Ship [illegible]a — "That's where [illegible] gone today if Nelly [illegible] In his yachting cap [illegible]nels, Kirk looked [illegible]h Juanita's eyes moved from Ship Island to watch the gulls following the yacht.

Juanita and the marquesa had been in Biloxi a fortnight. Following the carnival there had been a few small parties. Cerise DuBois, who had been queen of Comus, entertained them with a morning coffee. Adrian Fouche and his mother had invited them to dinner. Rod Stevens gave Juanita a dance where all the favors were Spanish. The Stevens home, one of the fine old places on St. Charles avenue, was filled with light and music. The March night was as warm and soft as June.

Nelly had welcomed her guests as the desert-dweller welcomes the caravan. Almost every evening there were guests for dinner and bridge, or dancing on the verandah of "White Aloes," the great house with the garden sloping down to the sea.

This was Kirk's fourth visit since they had come. Already he could observe a change in Juanita, watching her as she watched the gulls, a slender, white-clad figure among those flying wings. Something had seemed to drop away from her, some veil, some feeling of remoteness.

"What is that?" she asked suddenly, looking ahead of them.

"That," said Kirk, "is our destination—the Isle of Caprice."

It was all white sand, narrow as a front yard, with dunes and tall blowing grass. In its center was a rambling structure covered with vines, and on its farther side a surf tore in under a driving wind. People looking pigmy-small, battled the waves at their height, laughing, running back again.

Juanita stood watching the bathers. The marquesa's eyes roved to the rambling, vine-clad house.

"Like to go in the water?" Kirk asked them.

The marquesa shook her head. "Why do anybody come to Monte Carlo for a bath?" she asked.

Kirk understood. The marquesa was thinking of the roulette wheel. He led them up the steps of the house. Inside, people were grouped about the toy race-horses, or sitting in the high chairs around the roulette wheel.

Juanita looked and turned away. The marquesa started in. "Not coming?" she asked the other two. "Then meet me here in half an hour."

Kirk promised. During his visits in Biloxi he had found Spanish customs trying. He was sure he had said little to Juanita that the marquesa had not heard. Juanita seemed not to mind this espionage.

Well, he had her to himself for an hour, anyway.

"How about the surf, Juanita? Want to go in?"

He called her Juanita now. The marquesa called her that sometimes. Sometimes she said "Ysabel." Kirk liked "Juanita" better. Juanita hadn't objected to his calling her that. She had smiled and called him "Kirk." The quick, sharp syllable had been soft on her tongue.

Juanita wanted to see the island. They walked along together, Kirk happy in this hour of freedom, taking her by the hand, pointing out the spot where the pirates had buried their treasure.

"There—or there. No one has ever found it. But an old chart said—You know the story of the chart, La Fitte left? La Fitte was the worst pirate of them all. The chart he left read, 'Between the oak tree and the rock, close to the sea, I have buried my treasure.' They dug and found the skeleton of a girl."

"Under his mask," Juanita said, "there was a dimple, after all."

Kirk looked at her as they stood still.

"You're thinking about that confounded Rod Stevens," he remarked.

"I thought of him," smiled Juanita, "because you made me."

"Was that it? He says I had no right to take you off here as soon as you'd met everybody. But wouldn't you say I had a little right, the right of discovery?"

"That's a big right," said Juanita. "The right of discovery."

"I think so, too," Kirk answered. "Rivers have sometimes belonged to the men who discovered them. They've taken their names, at any rate."

Juanita seemed not to hear this. Kirk's hold on her hand tightened.

"I want them to know you," he added. "But I don't want you to like somebody else—better. Promise me you won't."

Her eyes came back to him, smiling.

"Can we swear to be safe from the headache on Tuesday, and think it will hold?" Mrs. Browning said that," she told him.

"Well, anyhow, promise. You like me a little—don't you?"

"Of coruse I like you," her eyes grave.

"Then, dont like anybody else better. Don't love anybody, Juanita—at least for a while."

She did not answer. He had a sense of the veil dropping again between them. It was the who began to walk on. They took the crescent's inner curve, standing at length on its point where the winds came tearing in, driving the spray about their feet. Juanita took off her cap, the wind lifting the loose tendrils of her hair, blowing her skirt against her. She stood white and slender, her eyes on the far sea on the gulls circling high.

Kirk caught her hand again, gripped it tight as if to hold her. She seemed like something winged, something that might fly away with the gulls.

Her evasion was not playful woman-retreat, as he knew it. It was more than this.

Hurley Indicates He Is Not Seeking Vice Presidency.

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 4.—Patrick J. Hurley, secretary of war, favors the renomination of Charles Curtis as Republican candidate for vice president in 1932.

Here yesterday on an inspection tour of his department's projects, Secretary Hurley was asked whether he would consider the Republican nomination for the post.

"I am for Charlie Curtis," he said. "I was for him for vice president at the Cleveland convention in 1924, and I was for him for vice president in the convention here in 1928."

The secretary continued his trip last night, flying to Sioux City, Ia., in his tri-motored army plane.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

WHEN I woke up this morning and laid holding Jubilee by the ear I got to thinking about Ebbie's mother. His mother is a nice woman. All mothers are. Some ants are too. When they don't wash a fella too much. Then I got to thinking about the Lost Bag of Tripe's soda water stand, and hopped out of bed and let Jubilee down and got on my short britches and went down, and when I had milked the dummed brutes and strained the milk and everything we all took the cows over to his house and stood out in front whilst he had the ice man put a big hunk of ice in the tub inside of his stand, and then he brang out a basket full of bottles of soda water and put them in the tub with the ice and then he said, "Are you fellas going to buy something or are you just looking?" Then Peanuts told him if he would let him tie his cow to the stand whilst he went home to see if his mother would give him some money he would come back and buy bottles for all of us; so the Lost Bag of Tripe told him to go ahead, and he tied his cow to one corner of the stand, and went away. It was a nice stand all painted yellow, and he said the soda water man gave it to him if his father would buy enough soda water to pay for the stand, so his father had. It was certainly a good one with a top to keep the sun and rain and everything off, and we were all wishing we had one like it, and just then Peanuts came back around the corner looking sad and carrying a long stick, and he said his mother wouldn't give him any money, and he soaked his cow the whole length of her ribs with the stick as hard as he could lamm her, and she gave a jump and started for the pasture, and our cows that were eating by the side of the street started with her; but Peanuts had forgot to untie her from the soda water stand and her first jump she snaked it off from over the Lost Bag of Tripe and left him setting there by his tub of soda water and looking supprized. Then the stand hit a tree and all but the corner the cow was tied to came loose and was left behind whilst we were on our way to the pasture. When we went around the corner the Lost Bag of Tripe was standing up by his tub hollering, "Mamma! Mamma! Mamma!" I bet she came a-running. But I told Peanuts she couldn't have him arrested or anything because the Lost Bag of Tripe had let him tie his cow there. We went around past Ebbie's house on the way to the vacant lot and when Ebbie told his mother about it she said the Lost Bag of Tripe's mother couldn't do anything about it, but she thought it would be nice for us to all go around and buy some soda water, and she gave Ebbie a nickel for each of us and we did. I didn't think I would ever enjoy being nice to the Lost Bag of Tripe, but I did that time all right.

Dicky Accuses Madge of Humiliating Him

DICKY turned from his magazine with such alacrity as I asked him if he wanted to read the finale of my third act that I realized his apparent absorption in his reading had been only a pretense. He was as anxious to read the end of what I had written as I was to keep him from seeing it.

But I had realized that there was no use in postponing the evil hour which I feared would be mine when Dicky should discover that I subconsciously had used some of his traits, mannerisms and witty speeches in the delineation of a "comedy relief" character in my play.

But it was with an apprehensive heart that I held out the remaining sheets of my third act to Dicky and leaning back in my chair watched him tensely. Would he discover what I had unwittingly done? I put up a silent little appeal that his perceptions usually so keen might not be functioning as brilliantly as usual.

He read down the pages with the same cheerful attention he had given to the first half of the act. So well was my memory functioning, that I had a distinct picture before me of my pages and their numbers. I knew just what lines appeared on each page and by watching carefully and counting from the first page I had given him I was able to follow his eyes and know exactly what lines he was reading. For three or four pages there was no speech for my comedy character. Then he made his final appearance in the third act and three or four pages of manuscript were given up mostly to his lines.

Dicky Rages

With a sick little feeling at my heart I saw Dicky's eyebrows gradually nearing each other as he perused those pages but he said nothing and read on to the end of the act without speaking.

As he took up the last page of the act on which there were but three or four lines I gripped the arms of my chair so hard that my finger tips ached. But my suspense was not yet to be lifted, for he had no sooner finished the act than he turned back a page which I estimated was the one upon which the comedy character appeared, and read those pages again. When he had finished, what I judged to be the page upon which the character made his exit, he laid down the sheets carefully and looked over at me, his face dark and forbidding.

"What are you trying to do in this thing, anyway?" he asked, "make a monkey of me?"

I gripped my courage with both hands. There was but one course I dared take and that was to pretend ignorance of his meaning. After all, I told myself in an effort to placate my conscience, I had been in ignorance of what I had done up to the time that Dicky had stumbled upon the speech which I had paraphrased from one of his own concerning Jack Rickett's photograph.

I looked up at him with wide open eyes into which I tried to infuse bewilderment.

"I don't know what you mean," I faltered.

"Oh! yes, you do," he retorted and there was a certain snarling note in his voice which told me that he was fast working himself into one of his rages, all too familiar to me in the early years of my married life but of which I had seen nothing during the last year.

"But I don't, Dicky," I protested. "Do you mean that I've made a monkey of you by asking you to read this act? I didn't know it was as bad as all that!"

But my pathetic attempt at histrionism fell flat. Dicky brushed it aside as though it had not been uttered.

The Showdown

"Don't stall!" he said roughly. "I'm not in the mood for it. Do you mean to tell me that this piffling caricature of Vickers in your play hasn't just enough of my mannerisms and phraseology so that any of my friends couldn't help but spot him?"

"Dicky," I almost shouted, "I never did! Show me where."

I rose and walking over to him, picked up the pages of my third act.

He threw himself back in his chair like the baited victim of a cross examination and looked at me with furious eyes.

"You don't need any showing," he said. "You know every syllable of this stuff."

I shed my incredulous manner and looked at him steadily.

"You are right," I said slowly, "I do know every syllable of this act and I do not need to read them to remember the lines which Vickers speaks. And as I run them over now I can see that there is some basis for your strictures. But, I give you my word of honor and I expect you to take it, that I had no idea of paraphrasing any words of yours or of exploiting your mannerisms."

"Do you mean me to believe"—Dicky's voice was heavily sardonic—"that Lil is responsible for this particular piece of piffle?"

"No, no," I said vehemently. "Lillian had nothing to do with it. Every word in it is my own."

"Well! They're nothing to broadcast," he retorted childishly.

But the fury had ebbed from his voice and I saw that my proffer of my "word of honor" had impressed him, though his natural stubbornness would not permit him to yield his point without protest.

"I suppose you mean me to believe"—this with elaborate sarcasm—"that your subconscious mind dictated all this rot and that your conscious ego had nothing to do with it."

'TIS SAD TO SEE BISHOPS "BLOW" BATTLE TO IRISH IN SEVENTH

MISFITS MAYBE, BUT THEY DO PLENTY TO AID NEW EMPLOYERS

Hendrick, Flowers, Hunnefield Are Sensations Since Discarded by Others.

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

One of the big problems in major league baseball is found in the "misfit" players men who don't do well with one team or have no real place on it but often become great players when sent to another club.

Two Brooklyn castoffs, Harvey Hendrick and Jake Flowers, who were merely good but not particularly useful utility players with the Robins, have attracted a wide attention this season by their performances since being traded Hendrick, a regular with Cincinnati, is one of the National league's leading batsmen and Flowers, sent to St. Louis for the waiver price has proved almost invaluable as a substitute for Frisch and Gelbert.

Look at Hunnefield

Another such player has cropped up recently in Bill Hunnefield, who had a varied career with the Chicago White Sox, Cleveland Indians and Boston Braves before he landed with the New York Giants.

Hunnefield has fitted nicely into the Giant machine in the hole left by the injury of Hughie Critz.

Hunnefield did his share toward New York's double victory over the Brooklyn Robins yesterday by driving in one run in the first game and scoring one in the second. Travis Jackson was the big gun of the Giant attack that turned back the Robins by scores of 6 to 3 and 3 to 2. He made five hits, including a home run, in the two games.

Chicago's Cubs took a double header from the humble Cincinnati Reds by scores of 4 to 2, and 7 to 3. The Reds finally broke into the scoring in the sixth inning of the first game after 45 runless innings, but their losing streak went to six straight games. Vince Barton, young Chicago outfielder, and Kiki Cuyler each made five hits.

It Couldn't Last

Pittsburgh ran its string of shutout innings to 45, then saw it broken with a loud crash. Henry Meine, trying for his third straight victory over the Cardinals, made an error in the sixth inning and the league champions broke through for seven runs in two innings to win 7 to 1.

The Phillies and the Boston Braves split the third twin bill on the National league program. Ray Benge stopped the Braves with six hits to gain a 3 to 2 victory in the opener while Wee Willie Sherdel, making his first start in a month, outpitched Clise Dudley in the second clash and Boston won 4 to 2.

Vic Frasier's pitching enabled the Chicago White Sox to gain an even break with Detroit in the "cellar" series. Frasier, who won the opening game Saturday with a six-hit performance, held the Tigers to eight blows to win the final clash 5 to 1. Rain halted the battle between Cleveland and St. Louis while the other American league teams had an off day.

LORD SCOTT SHOWS HEELS TO FIELD IN 14-18 CLAIMING PACE

Wallace Direct Cops 2:26 Pace; Peter F. J. Takes 2:18 Trot; 1,500 See Races.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK
Sports Editor, The Star

AN UNFORTUNATE accident that necessitated the killing of Mike Chan, a bay gelding from the stable of L. L. Aller of LaRue, marred the second night's events of the Short Ship racing program at Fairground track. The accident that ended the racing days of the little gelding occurred near the south turn of the track. The horse apparently stumbled and struck its left foreleg with its hind foot badly lacterating the tendons of the foreleg.

Favorites came through to win the money in all of the three events for the second consecutive night. The "repression" apparently is affecting the bookies as well as the rest of the world for the odds on the horses are unusually short. Betting did not seem to be overly heavy in any of the booths.

The Second Time

For the second straight night there was only one of the three events in which all three heats were not necessary to decide the winner. Lord Scott romped home ahead of the field in the first two heats of the 14-18 pace claiming event to win the only straight heat race.

Art. Vail piloted Lantern home ahead of the field to capture the first heat of the first event of the night, the 2-19 trot but fell way down the line in the succeeding heats. Peter F. J., piloted by Walton, came through in the final two heats to beat the field to the wire and take first money. Lantern took the lead in the second heat of the event but broke on the first turn and was soon well back in the running.

Peter F. J. Steps Out

Who Knows and Black Jolia both made bids for first place in this heat but lost out on the backstretch as Peter F. J. unloosed a burst of speed that carried him from third to first. Black Jolia finished second a nose behind the winner.

Peter F. J. repeated his second heat victory in the third although he had to overcome some spirited competition on the part of Mamie Britton. The winner trailed for the first three quarters of the mile but took the lead at the turn and romped home ahead of Black Jolia. Mamie Britton broke to fall back to fourth place.

Tramping Napoleon, Miss Betty Logan and Wallace Direct staged a little three way duel in the 2-26 pace that repeatedly brought the grandstand patrons to their feet in a frenzy of excitement. Tramping Napoleon copped the first heat of the event but lost out in the next two to Wallace Direct. Miss Betty Logan was all set to capture the second heat of the event when she thundered into the back stretch a good length ahead of the field but she broke and fell back to finish second to Wallace Direct. Doris Worthy turned in a good race but failed to finish in the money.

The time for this race was not as fast as that of the other two. Tramping Napoleon stepped the first heat in 2:14½ and the last two in 2:16 and 2:15.

Lord Scott Wins Easily

As far as competition was concerned in the final event of the night, the 14-18 pace claiming, there was none until the final heat. Lord Scott showed a clean pair of heels to the rest of the entries in this event, stepping the first two heats in the identical time of 2:09. He finished well ahead of the field in both of the heats.

Joe Dillon sprang a surprise on the railbirds in the third heat by flashing a burst of speed on the stretch to take the heat from Directmar in 2:13. Directmar was a 2-3 favorite to cop the heat while Joe Dillon was booked at even money.

Three events are again on the program for tonight. Four were originally scheduled but one has been scratched. It is probable that four will be run off on Thursday night.

Tonight's Events

The events for tonight, the entries and drivers follow. 2:26 pace. Cookie McKinney, Ford; Mabel Tinos, Hoker; The Emperor, Morrison; Orpham Volo, Parshall; Baron Fremore, Flaxico; Marie McKinney, Palmer; Ada Wilson, Peck; Helen Lincoln, Richardson.

2:22 trot: Peter Walnut, Stanley; Ruth M., Brinkerhoff; Pirella's Guy, Critchfield; Dick Red, Vail; Mildred Axworthy, McMillen; R. D. McKinney, R. Valley; Chatty Guy, Wickersham; Lucille June, Rodman; Lee Mack, Walton; Gladly, McMillen.

SLATTERY SEEKS TO LIFT ROSIE'S CROWN

Buffalo Pug Meets Rosenbloom in Quest of Light Heavyweight Title.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 5 — Two young men who take life in general and the boxing business in particular a trifle lightly will battle 15 rounds in Ebbets field, Brooklyn, tonight for the world's light heavyweight champion.

Maxie Rosenbloom, of Harlem, will be the defending champion; Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo, the challenger. Slattery has been challenging for the 175-pound crown for a long time but always has succeeded in coming out second best.

The odds favor Maxie at 6 to 5.

The close, smoke-filled atmosphere of New York night clubs has put Rosenbloom in fine fettle for his title defense. Maxie fights so often that he never bothers to train. He has been known to frequent gymnasiums but usually it has been to watch somebody else work out.

Slattery, another playboy, has taken the fight a bit more seriously. Realizing apparently that he can't go on forever — he's been fighting since 1921—"Slats" has worked out faithfully for some weeks in a desperate attempt to get in shape and lift the crown that has eluded him for so long.

RISKO WINS

Rough and Tumble Bout Goes to Cleveland Heavyweight.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 5 — Johnny Risko, Cleveland heavyweight, won a decision over K. O. Christner of Akron, in a 12-round bout that was rough and tumble in more ways than one last night.

The tumble came in the third round when the Akron rubber man pushed Risko out of the ring and fell on him.

The roughing was scattered throughout the battle.

It was a busy night for the referee. He pulled the scrappers out of wrestling clinches repeatedly, warned both about low blows, called Christner twice for heeling.

Risko was credited by the sports writers with winning 10 of the rounds.

Art Shires, one time "Whataman" of the Washington Senators and Chicago White Sox, is one of the best hitters in the American association. Playing first base for Milwaukee, he recently took the league lead with an average of .400.

Short Ship Sidelights

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK

Attendance picked up somewhat at last night's races although it still is not what it should be. There were probably 1,500 persons on the grounds. This is about 300 more than saw the events of the opening program on Monday.

• • •

Two exhibition races have been carded for Friday night. Trixie Chan, two-year-old colt of C. B. Mittenbuhler, of Marion, will pace a mile against time and Patchen Girl, the property of John Fellmuth, will do the same. Both of these colts show promise of developing into good racers. Friday night will be their first trip around the track in connection with any meet.

• • •

Carlock is the first driver to pilot two winners in this meeting. Lulu Worthy, the winner of the 17 class pace on Monday night and Lord Scott, winner of the 14-18 class pace on Tuesday claiming were piloted by him. Other winners of races so far are Parshall, Buntaine, Vail and Walton.

• • •

Black Leaf still owns the honor of having stepped the fast mile in the meeting to date. Driven by Erskine Monday night in the classified trot, this St. Charles, Ill., gelding whirled around the half mile oval in 2:08½. Despite this feat Black Leaf did not win the race, that honor going to General Walker.

• • •

Grapevine rumors around the oval following the accident that cut short the racing days of Mike Chan, had it that the owner of the ill-fated horse, L. L. Aller, of La Rue, refused an offer only last week of $2,500 for his horse. However, it is unsubstantiated so don't quote me on it.

UNLESS someone unseats the rock of Gibraltar and a few other like happenings take place within the next week, you can start figuring out the chances the St Mary Irish have of winning the world series championship. The Irish clambered a step nearer the title of the Sunday school No. 1 league yesterday by taking the measure of the Epworth Bishops 2-1 in one of the hardest fought ball games played this year in any league. As a result of the victory the Irish are perched on the top rung of the championship ladder.

Gentlemen, there was a ball game! If anyone has any doubt of how hard the Irish worked to win that game with the Bishops, they might ask any of the Irish players. There isn't a one on the team that won't tell you they worked for every run they got and worked plenty.

What a Game

It was no ordinary ball game, this battle of the Irish and Bishops. Although strictly a hurlers' duel from start to finish a large share of credit must go to the fielders of both teams for keeping it in that category. It wasn't just a succession of lazy popflies and strikeouts although there were some of both. The batters of both teams had their war clubs working overtime but hits were few and far between, simply because of the superlative fly shagging of the fielders. Long hits off Irish bats that would have gone for easy doubles and triples were pulled down by the Bishops without apparent effort. The same goes for the Irish. Many a time they robbed the Bishops of hits by brilliant fielding.

It was 1-0 at the start of the last half of the final inning. It looked like it would be 1-0 when the game was over. The Irish had clogged the bases with one out in the sixth and couldn't put a score across and there was little reason to think they could score in the seventh with the Bishops battling to preserve their slight margin of leadership.

It Can't Be Helped

However, the best pitchers will hit a wild streak and Eddie Mautz chose this particular inning to have his. It's a tough break for Eddie, having hurled the bang-up game that he did for six innings, but someone has to be the goat and he is it. Eddie's control was gone in the last of the seventh. The first two men to face him in the seventh walked and the next two drove out singles. The next man flied out and then "Tommy" Andrews lined a single to left field that scored the winning run. It was a great ball game!

Calvary hammered its way into second place by giving a rapidly slipping Trinity Baptist team its fifth beating of the season. The final score of this game was 5-2. The Trinity defenses went "blooey" in the fourth inning and allowed four Calvary runs to cross the plate before the third man was retired. Trinity also got both of its runs in the fourth.

Finally Made It

Epworth No. 1 finally got into the first division when it gave the much-defeated Lutherans another beating by a score of 9-6. The victory of Clark's proteges, coupled with the defeat of the Bishops, puts these two Methodist teams in a deadlock for third place in the standings. Trinity dropped from the first division to fifth place.

The Epworth Seniors, facing the prospect of being relegated to the second church league next season came to life yesterday long enough to give the Lee Street Presbyterians a first class pasting, 10-2. The Seniors jumped into a two run lead in the first inning and held it until the sixth when they tore loose on an eight run rally. Lee Street scored two runs in the last half of the seventh.

COLONELS BATTLE TO RETAIN POST AMONG FIRST FOUR ENTRIES

Blues Drag Louisville into Tie for Fourth by Winning Opener 10-1.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 5—Louisville is striving to remain in the first division of the American Association is causing manager Allan Sothoron as much worry as trying to keep up with St. Paul did a month ago.

The Colonels, defending the pennant, went out into the lead early in the season and appeared to be a good bet to retain the championship.

St. Paul grabbed the lead and has steadily increased its margin while the Colonels have slipped back. Until today they were tied with Kansas City for fourth place, with an even .500 percentage.

The Blues yesterday dragged Louisville into the tie by winning the opener of the series, 10 to 1, behind an excellent pitching performance by Ed Holley.

St. Paul whacked up a double header with Toledo, taking a 7 to 1 licking in the opener, but having the nightcap.

A ninth inning drive that was good for two runs gave Columbus a 4 to 3 victory over Minneapolis. Young Ed Walsh was the victim of the rally in which a walk, a single, an error by Walsh himself and a double steal, produced the necessary runs.

Milwaukee and Indianapolis broke even in a doubleheader. The Brewers got 15 hits in the second game for a 9 to 3 victory while the Indians staged another of those late drives to gain a 9 to 8 triumph.

GRAIN PRICES SLUMP AGAIN

Lower Liverpool Quotations React Against Values at Chicago.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 5—Much lower Liverpool wheat quotations than expected led early today to sharp new setbacks in grain prices here, with wheat, corn, oats future deliveries reaching fresh bottom levels. Liverpool repotted heavy offerings of all descriptions of wheat ,with Russian and Danubian prices slashed. Opening ½@1¼ cents down, the Chicago wheat market afterward showed but little power to rally. Corn started ⅝@1⅛ off, and later continued to sag.

All Chicago future deliveries of wheat quickly outdid this season's bottommost prices, and September wheat reached an all time low. The volume of transactions both in wheat and other cereals was decidedly larger than has recently been the rule. Attention focused altogether on advices from Liverpool, where the market was described as "very weak" owing particularly to selling pressure from southeastern Europe. It was added that British millers were bidding only cautiously, and that Russian and Danubian wheat was 6 pence per quarter lower, causing liquidation.

Adding to bearish sentiment as to wheat was an official estimate that the world's wheat carry-over on July 1, amounted to more than 67,000,000 bushels, compared with 563,000,000 bushels a year ago. There were also predictions that within a week the 1931 spring wheat harvest would have spread northward into Manitoba province, and that Alberta and Saskatchewan provinces would soon follow. Corn and oats worked lower as a result of sympathy with wheat.

Provisions were responsive to weakness of cereals.

Pageant Showing Progress of Scouting Is Presented

Before a crowd of considerably more than 200 parents, friends and visitors, the third and last period of scout Camp John A. Owens was brought to a close last night with a whirl of activity.

Members of the Rotary club held their weekly meeting at the camp prior to the evening program with a dinner at 6:30 p. m. The program started at 8 p. m.

Water Pageant

The first scheduled event was an interesting water pageant presented by a group of campers, showing the progress of the art of swimming. Varieties of swimming strokes were illustrated and several of the life-saving methods as taught by the American Red Cross were shown. Edward McComb, waterfront director of the camp, was in charge of this part of the entertainment, assisted by Chester Evans as "King Neptune," Robert Foltz as "Davey Jones," and several campers.

The main event of the program was a pageant by campers under the direction of the camp staff, portraying the early development of scouting ideals in the day of the American Indian, and the stages in its growth to its present size as a world wide activity.

Tanned youngsters took the roles of Indians in the first part of the event, presenting Indian dances, songs and rituals. The advent of the pioneers portrayed by F. O. Tuttle as Daniel Beard, Edward McComb as Kit Carson, Russell Cook as Daniel Boone, and Herman Rhu, Jr., as Davy Crockett, eclipsed the early Americans from the scene. The pioneers were grouped around the campfire when a group of "city boys" on a camping trip arrived, lost and weary, at the spot.

The pioneers took pity on their inexperience and agreed to teach them the fundamentals of nature and the woods. After a three weeks trip, representing the three weeks camping period just ended, the party returned to the original scene, where the "tenderfeet" were asked to give an account of what they had learned. At this point, the Harding area court of honor, represented by the chairman, Roy Waddell, was introduced by Scout Executive Arthur S. Brooks. After the twelve scout laws had been given by the scouts, honors and awards were presented to those who had qualified for them during camp. Many of the awards had been made earlier in the camp season, but the remaining ones were made at this time.

Made Eagle Scout

David Murray of Troop 10 carried off the big honor of the night when he was presented with the highest award open to scouts, the Eagle Scout rank. Chairman Waddell complimented Murray upon his achievement.

The rank of Life Scout, another high scouting honor, was awarded to Robert Glosser by the court, and Delmar Wilcox received the second class scout badge. Merit badges were presented to Chester Evans of Troop 2 in leathercraft, pioneering, life saving, and woodcraft; Howard Stofer of Troop 3 in life saving swimming and leathercraft; Robert Mantz of Troop 3 pioneering; Robert Glosser of Troop 4 cooking; Robert Foltz of Troop 5, camping and pioneering; Robert Eyers, of Troop 9, leathercraft and woodcarving; David Murray of Troop 10, life saving and bird study, and Frank Gegenheimer of Troop 3, woodcarving and pioneering.

The next event was the awarding of honors in swimming and life saving, made by Edwin McComb, waterfront director. The Red Cross beginners button was presented to Delmar Wilcox, the swimmers' button to William Smith and Robert Eyer, and the Junior Red Cross life saving emblem to Robert Foltz, Roger Morgan, Chester Evans, David Murray, Bud Sheckler, Jerry Brown and Howard Stofer. Harry Fast received the senior Red Cross life saving emblem. The announcer for the scout pageant was James A. Barker, director of the camp museum.

Last Day of Camp

Taps, sung by the characters in the pageant and played by the camp buglers, ended the program in typical scout manner. The pageant was staged on a high bank on the opposite side of the pool from the audience. With a campfire behind and below the characters, part of the playlet was presented in pantomime.

Today is the last official day of the scout camp, with two swimming periods and the daily camp program. The camp will not close immediately, however, as it will be open under the camp staff for another week for the benefit of scouts making overnight stops there.

FACES CHARGES

BUCYRUS, Aug. 5 — Charles Rheubert will be arraigned today before Mayor Arthur Schuler on a charge of non-support of a minor child on a warrant sworn out by Mrs. Rheubert. Rheubert was taken into custody at Xenia by local police late Tuesday.

LODGE MEETS

The regular meeting of Canby Temple No. 51, Knights of Pythias, was held last night at the lodge hall with the routine business of the lodge transacted.

Theater News And Reviews

"ARIZONA" COMES TO PALACE THURSDAY

Laura La Plante, John Wayne and June Clyde are featured in "Arizona," coming to the Palace Thursday and Friday. Augustus Thomas wrote the play on which the picture is based. It had its premier in 1899 at the Hamilton opera house in Chicago with a cast which included many who later became famous in Hollywood, including Robert Edeson, Theodore Roberts, Arthur Byron, Eleanor Robson, Edmund Holt, Olive May and Lionel Barrymore. This is a new one on Laura LaPlante's career. She got her real start in movies because Christie Brothers, leading comedy producers, saw in her the ideal of Jiggs' beautiful daughter in McManus' popular cartoon strip, "Bringing Up Father."

The Stars Say—

For Thursday, Aug. 6

WHILE the general state of affairs will be lively and eventful, with a favorable trend to purely independent projects, there is a decided hint of inharmony, hazard and uncertainty in the employment of others or in the approach to superiors or those in power or authority. Writings, publishing or promotions should flourish, but otherwise finances are in peril. The personal relations may be intriguing, develop subtle or curious tendencies, but may be gratifying and flourishing. Romantic possibilities are stressed.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a thriving and progressive year, with much of a constructive nature and independent activities, but they may find difficulty and peril in relations with employers or those in high places. The personal affiliations may be touched with subtlety, intrigue or romance of a curious or idealistic nature. A child born on this day should be versatile and brilliant intellectually, romantic, idealistic and temperamental. It should succeed in letters.

Notable activity: Sunspots, spot.

Just How Smooth is Smooth in a Motor Car Engine
"Smoothness" is another of those relative terms which make it so difficult to clearly describe automobile performance. In fact, when anybody brings up the subject, you are thoroughly entitled to ask yourself this question . . . "Just how smooth is 'smooth' in a motor car engine?" + + Frankly, there's just one way for us to answer you, and that's to invite you to bring all your preconceived opinions with you . . . to drive Oldsmobile and make your own comparisons. + + We can give you this much information beforehand.
